Mitochondria [1]

By: Guerrero, Anna  Keywords: Organelles [2]
Mitochondria are organelles found in the cytoplasm of eukaryotic cells. They are composed of an outer membrane and an inner membrane. Between the two membrane layers is called the intermembrane space, and the space within the inner membrane is called the matrix.